Origin and Habitat of El Peix Irisat

Geographical Distribution

El peix irisat, also recognized by its scientific name Lepidion lepidion, predominantly inhabits the northeastern Atlantic Ocean and the Mediterranean Sea. It is commonly found along the coasts of Spain, Portugal, France, and Italy, thriving at depths ranging from 200 to 700 meters. Its preferred habitat includes continental slopes and deep-sea environments, where the pressure and temperature conditions are ideal for its development.

Environmental Preferences

This species favors cold, deep waters with stable conditions, often residing near underwater structures such as rocky bottoms or submarine canyons that provide shelter and feeding opportunities. The deep-sea environment influences its growth rate, reproductive cycle, and overall biology, making it a species well-adapted to life in the abyssal zones.

Physical Characteristics and Identification

Appearance and Size

El peix irisat is characterized by its slender, elongated body, typically reaching lengths of 20 to 30 centimeters, although specimens can sometimes grow up to 40 centimeters. Its body is laterally compressed, giving it a streamlined shape suited for deep-sea navigation.

The most distinctive feature is its coloration:

- Coloration: A silvery or metallic hue with iridescent reflections that shimmer under light, hence the name ?irisat,? which refers to the fish?s shimmering, rainbow-like scales.
- Fins: Its dorsal fin is continuous, with a series of soft rays, and the anal fin mirrors the dorsal in length and softness. The pectoral fins are relatively small, aiding in subtle movements.
